Dear Reader,

We have encountered numerous challenges on this website due to interference from federal and city governments, as well as external entities such as the World Economic Forum (WEF). We have been battling online surveillance, hacking, and hijacking. As we previously shared, our website was overtaken, and crucial data was deleted from our network. During this period, we were in maintenance mode for nearly a month, working tirelessly to recover our information, especially the content on this blog.

We successfully restored approximately 60% of the blog's content. We discovered that with the help of Google Inc., hackers gained access to our data network, stored on Google Cloud. This intrusion allowed them to manipulate and delete vital information. Despite these challenges, we remain steadfast in our commitment to preserving our voice and message.

The fight against these forces of control has been long and difficult. We have stood against the oppressive actions of the United States government, and the interference in our digital lives has only grown more intense. As of January 20, 2025, we continue to monitor the situation, hopeful that the ongoing persecution will soon come to an end with the return of President Donald J. Trump. We believe that his commitment to ending the persecution of Christians should begin with halting the persecution against myself, which he has resumed.

For the past 17 years, I have endured constant surveillance and invasions of my privacy by Washington, D.C. My conversations have been monitored, my personal devices hacked, and my private data accessed—spanning from my cell phones and iPads to my Apple accounts, personal and business information, and various platforms. These intrusive actions have extended to my computer network, where covert surveillance continues.

Beyond monitoring my communications, Washington has gone to extreme lengths to manipulate the content we share online. This website, especially the blog, has been repeatedly tampered with, with posts erased or altered to fit an agenda that seeks to silence our voice. These continuous disruptions have significantly impacted our ability to control both my digital and personal life.

However, we firmly believe that this persecution will end, not merely because of the political promises of president Donal J. Trump, but because it is part of God's plan. The Lord has promised to deliver me from this 17-year-long ordeal of surveillance, harassment, and life-threatening actions. We remain hopeful that this dark chapter is nearing its conclusion, and that soon, we will be freed from the grip of those who have sought to suppress us.

In the meantime, these forces continue to censor our website and block access to information that challenges their worldview and agenda. They have intensified their attacks, trying to shut the site down completely. Visitors are often unable to access our content, and many of our blog posts have been deleted, replaced, or altered to align with their interests. If you notice that an article has been removed or find posts that seem nonsensical, riddled with errors, or missing information such as images, videos, or links, now you understand the reason behind it.

Should these forces succeed in taking down the website, please know that we will do everything in our power to restore it as quickly as possible. Your patience and support during this difficult time mean the world to us, and we will continue to keep you updated on any new developments.

Please take comfort in the knowledge that the true ruler of our lives is Jesus Christ, our Lord and Savior. Those who reject Him are not only rejecting eternal life but also all the blessings that come with it.

If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to reach out. We are here to support you in every way we can.

In Jesus' name,
